The Struggle In Cuba.

The people of Cuba struck the first ago, when Lopez went to the assistant with his ill-sated but historic spedition of "filibusters." The Gene il Concwho opposed that revolution is still gaged in the same hopeless business. For the movement never died out, although the present effort was not formally inau gurated until the 10th of October, 1868. At that time the population of the island consisted of about 850,000 Creoles-native Cubans of Spanish descent-200,000 Spaniards, 100,000 French. men, Englishmen, Americans and Ger mans; 400,000 slaves, and about 50,000 coolies. The native Cubans live mostly on the plantations of the interior, constituting the solid population of the Island; and as born Cubans they hate the Spaniards of the cities without much qualification. These Cubans are the people who have been struggling for nearly six years to throw off the galling

Spanish yoke. From its outburst in 1868 to the pres ent hour the revolution has never flagged for a moment, and to-day is stronger than ever. The Cuban forces are now well armed and disciplined, and they fight with a steadiness and obstinacy that must conquer sooner or later All intelligent observers of the contest acknowledge that it must terminate, as every other insurrection in Spanish-Amerare to be decorated. They wrote some of the most remarkable love letters in ican countries has terminated, in the independence of the insurgents. Without The application of General Santa scarcely any aid from exterior sources cost Spain $140,000,000 and 100,000 lives, and the rebellion is stronger than tle reminiscences of how they used to romp with Henry Ward Beecher. "But, hand the Colonial Government" is almost hopelessly demoralized, There is talk of starting a society for both financially and politically. improvement of wife killing. The The issues of the Bank of Havana, which constitute the only paper money of the Island, are not worth over twenty-five ter of the United States at London, has an income of sixty thousand dollars from can only be averted by an early suppress. can only be averted by an early suppres sion of the revolt, and the Government is powerless to even stay its course.

The Cubans are fighting unaided the nconsistent Madrid Republic and the wealth of the Casina for the same principles that impelled us to resist the preensions of George III. They have endured far greater tyrannies and exactions than our forefathers did; and now when the Spanish government is confessedly powerless to suppress the insurrection, should not the people of Cuba be ac corded equal rights with Spain by this government? They only ask that much of free America. Their efforts through six years justly entitle them to recognition. To accord belligerent rights to the Cubans, would be simply a recognition of a war for self-government, that the whole world knows is destined to succeed. Such a recognition would bring vania; the new constitution of Ohio, yet to the Cubans moral aid, that would enable them to sooner put an end to the devastating struggle. There is not a reason left for the further persistence of the administration in its present policy; and the time has fully arrived when the people of this country should begin to give expression to their sentiments in favor of the heroic struggle of the Cubans for in-

accepted home bids to the amount of pate the clouds. He was preparing $10,118,550, he forthwith entered into ing, the large mass of official documents, Federal and Confederate, relative to the civil war, which are in the possession of the Government. There is enough manuscript now ready to make two large volumes.

$10,118,550, he forthwith entered into negotiations with a syndicate of American and European bankers to take the balance of the loan at par, and his success is now generally conceded. The whole amount of this loan authorized by Congress was $500,000,000, and if the bargain just made be fully carried out, the annual saving in interest will amoun to $5,000,000.

The members of the new syndicate an the Rothschilds of London, Paris and Vienna, J. M. Seligman & Co., for themabsolutely, and have the option to take the balance, namely, $124,000,000 in six months. The payments are to be made in coin or matured coin coupons or such five-twenty bonds as may be called by the Secretary. The syndicate are to receive one-fourth of one per cent. commission out of which they are to pay all expenses including the delivery of the bonds in Europe. The old syndicate received onehalf of one per cent, commission, and managed to draw double interest for three months. Gen. Bristow has made a much better bargain.

The case of money in Europe, the pref erence just now given to government bonds are valued at a mule. There were 500 over corporate securities, and the fac on her cloak. Think of wearing 250 that the new syndicate embraces the most over corporate securities, and the fact influential and wealthy banker times of buckskin, sometimes it is a plain of Europe, all indicate that the whole shawl, bought from the traders, completes loan will be absorbed. The next step of the new Secretary will consist in a call for $45,000,000 of the five-twenty bonds ly appointed Minister to Berlin, shipped his horses and carriage by the Bremen steamer Orannehweig on Friday, at Baltimore. Mr. Davis was present at Locust Point and superintended the lifting of the horses into the ship, which was no easy task. They are a pair of beautiful. refunding. 105. THE Supreme Court of Pennsylvania has declared the public sale of an un claimed package, which was unopened by the express company, a fraud upon the rights of the owner, and the company is liable for the value of the goods. In delivering the opinion of the court, Judge Mercer said: "Selling the trunks with the goods locked up in them, and describing the contents as unknown, with holds from he bidders all knowledge of the character or value of the contents and clearly is not within the meaning o the law which directs the manner of sale This manner of selling goods of any value is unjust, both to the owner and to the bidders. In this very case the evidence shows that the contents of the trunk were actually examined by one of the agents of the company before the sale, vet each was sold as 'contents unknown.'

THE TILTON AMUSEMENT.

An Early but Unsatifactory Closing Probable. BROOKLYN NEW YORK, July 30 .-Judge Riley has issued no subpoena yet in the libel case, of Gaynor vs Tilton been applied, for Ex-Judge Morris, Tiltons counsel, says Tilton is prepared to defend himself when the case is again called Gaynor, the complainant, says if the case comes up in a Justice Court he will have assistance in prosecuting it such as have assistance in prosecuting it such as the public does not expect. He has already list of witnesses made out including Beecher, Moulton, Carpenter and others, but not Mrs. Tilton. If Tilton asks for an examination these witnesses will at once be subpeaned. He said further that he was privately informed that both Tilton and Beecher's friends were trying o hush up the trial.

It is reported that a consultation was need this afternoon at Mr. Shearman's ouse. General Tracy and several members of the committee were present. It is understood that Beecher's defense was the subject under deliberation.
It is said that Beecher, on hearing of Tilton's arrest, exclaimed: "Poor Theo-

OOKLYN, July 30.—It is learned that the committee will terminate its labors very speedily if Moulton gives his testimony promptly. Sherman is reported as having stated to-day that what is called technical legal evidence has not yet been produced before the committee. All that has been taken would not be admitted in a court of law. There is not a particle of testimony yet worth anything, but what is damaging to Tilton. If Moulton declines to testify the committee will have to conclude the investigation and tell what they have done. There is no testimony yet taken that will prove is no testimony yet taken that will prove Tilton's accusations, and the committee will have to say so. A friend of Beecher in conversation to-day, is reported as saying that Moulton has declared to several persons Beecher's innocence of any crime, and that his affirmations to writing. This coupled with the fact that Beecher has assented to Moulton producing all letters, &c., concerning the dal, and that Tilton's acquiescence to such a condition, has not yet been forthcom-

-Etc. [By Telegraph to The Constitution.]

WASHINGTON, July 30.—Lieutenant Colonel J. W. Davidson, of the 10th cavalry, at Fort Hill reports that on the evening of the 13th, the Iudians attacked Evans' wood camp, about 11 miles from the post. Lieutenant Smithers, of the 10th cavalry, with a body of troops, succeeded in recovering fifty head of cattle, which had been run off by the Indians. The body of one man was found, scalped, and full of arrows. The Indians made good their escape. Lieutenant-Colonel Dovidson says he is guarding too large a line from Red River to Cheyenne agency and will have to break up Camp Augu temporarily. The wildest stories are it circulation about the combined forces of Kiowas, Comanches and Chevennes tha are said to be moving to attack Fort Hill. Col. Davidson expresses the belief that every man at the fort would be glad it they would make the attack.

PHILADELPHIA, July 26.—The where-abouts of the stolen boy, Charley Ross, has not yet been discovered, notwith-ing the large reward offered and the ex-ertions of the Philadelphia police.

THE SCENE OF THE ABDUCTION. Certain it is that no better locality could have been selected for the abduction of a child than Washington lane. The noise of a passing train occasionally wakes up the neighborhood, but there are few persons pass along its pavements, except in the morning or evening, as the trains depart or arrive. A drive of a quarter of a mile, after turning into Washington lane from Germantown ave, brought me to the brow of a steep hill. brought me to the brow of a steep hill. On either side were rows of beautiful residences, and the air seemed pervaded with dences, and the air seemed pervaded with a deathlike stillness. Up and down this hill, I was afterwards to learn from the mother of the boy, the child-stealers were in the habit of driving. A square brick house, quite high above the road, next met my view It was partially hidden from the street by a quantity of evergreens. A wide, vine-covered veranda runs around the house. Entering the gate your correspondent walked up to gate, your correspondent walked up to the front door, and inquired for Mrs. Ross.

a gigantic foot, formed by cuttings on a forest, with every curve as true as if it had been fashioned by one of the "anatomical" foot makers.

Dr. Donaldson, about 4:30, suggested that as it would be necessary to leave one of the party now and then, in order to make the trip as long as possible, the journalists should draw lots to decide who should get out first. Numbers were written on separate slips of paper tossed forth.

"There is little that I can tell you about the abduction of Charley," began garding the events prior to the kidnap-ping that have not been told. These are that, for the better part of a week pre-ceding the sad event, these men were seen repeatedly by a neighbor and by the children. The men drove up from the di-rection of the rail road crossing, near Chew street. Driving along leasurely they would stop in the road, as if to fix like pipestems, tore boards from fences, some part of the harness, and after at-left a narrow path through fields of grain tracting the attention of the children which it crossed, and seemed to be resist-less. When it drags over a house, a fence, or along the ground, a sound like not meeting the boys turned and came dowly down."

"Did the appearance of these men not attract your attention?"
"Without exciting our suspicion we were rather annoyed, Mr. Ross told Walter, the elder boy, that he must not take candy from any stranger. It was only a day or two previous to the abduction that he learned of these facts."

"What ideas did the neighbors form?" asked. "Dr. Walker, who, on two occasions, saw the men on the road, set them down at first as country physicians. The carriage they drove was always the same dingy-looking affair, while the horse a fine looking animal, always appeared fresh, as if he had not traveled any great distance. The men had intelligent looking faces, and were the very last persons one would suspect of such work. Dr. Walker determined to address them on meeting them for the second time, but both turned their heads abruptly away. There are a great many people in the world who are unsocial who are not knaves; so it is not surprising that this fact did not strike the Doctor as suspicious. Who could dream of any such a crime? Who but a mother can realize the awful import of the words 'A stolen child!' * * * The setual facts of the

AN INTERVIEW WITH MR. Ross.
A correspondent to-day had an interview with Mr. Ross, the father of the abducted child, and found that he wa aware of all the untoward reports that were in circulation concerning him. Although a very reticent man he explain each position presented to him by the re-porter in a very plausible, if not entirely satisfactory, manner.

He said that late in June Mrs. Ross was somewhat unwell, owing to the fact that she had been much troubled about the cares of her household and about Mr. Rose's business difficulties, and she was advised by her physician to go to the seashore. Accordingly she repaired to At-lantic City, where she was when her little son was stolen.

The child was left with his brother in care of a housekeeper, and must have been playing about the premises when he was enticed into the wagon with his brothers by the abductors. It was not until evening that Mr. Ross discovered his misfortune, and his first thought wa to look after the little one himself. Thi he says he did. He searched in all direct he says he did. He searched in all direc-tions, and only gave up the hunt tempo-rarily in the vain hope that some friend or relative had him. Subsequently he lodged information with the police au-thorities of Germantown. They telegraphed to all the city suburban stations out could get not the slightest clew he child's whereabouts. At the instance of a friend Mr. Ross on Saturday, July 4, prepared a placard, giving a description of the child and his apparel, and offering a reward of $300 for his restoration. Such a reward, he

In answer to this Mr. Ross received on the 7th a communication with what is supposed to be a fictitious signature offering to restore the child for the immense ransom of $20,000.

None of this intelligence was communicated to Mrs. Ross at first for fear it would drive her to distraction and Mrs. would drive her to distraction, and Mr. Ross still hoped to find his child and restore him to the mother without her knowledge of the awful :ffair. The news got to her, and she returned home at once. From that time until the present her physicians, husband, relatives and friends have naturally encouraged her to hope that her child would certainly be returned to her, and she is very hopeful yet.

Mr. Ross denies most emphatically hat his relatives have offered to give him that his relatives have offered to give him the amount of ransom money demanded for his child, but he says he has been enabled to raise it and will pay it for the recovery of his lost darling. It has not been ransomed yet, because the negotiations with the kidnappers have been temporarily suspended, possibly through the fear of detection.

He also denies any knowledge of or

The primary error in the description of the child's clothing was chargeable to the excitement and alarm caused by the child stealing.

There is one mysterious circumstance in this case which troubles and perpiexes every one. It is well kown that Mr. Ross has received numerous threatening letters. The nature, character and even a portion of the contents of these letters were given exclusively in these columns several days ago. They were reproduced everywhere, and there is scarcely any one who is now unaware what they were. Yet up to this hour Mr. Ross positively refuses to allow these letters to be printed entire, or to allow a fac-simile of their chirography to be published anywhere.

Mr. Ross perhaps has many reasons for keeping back the letters, and it is all the more particular that he should have selected the weakest one. In a community where so many journals are circulated, and among people who have all read the nature of such communications, it seems impossible that Mrs. Ross should not be now thoroughly familiar with the content of ell of these impossible that Airs. Ross should not be now thoroughly familiar with the con-tents of all of them.

The arraignment of the kidnappers be-gins to look more and more doubtful. Mr. Ross insists that he must have the failed in their part of the work, it seems probable that the father will pay the money, regain his absent one and the thieves be allowed to escape.

In justice to General Gordon we print his letter to the editor of the Wilkinson Appeal in correction of the statements alleged to have been made by him in an interview with a reporter of an Atlanta interview with a reporter of an Atlanta paper. General Gordon complains that he has been greatly misuaderstood in respect to his relations with General Grant, and particularly in regard to the nomination of the latter for a third term. It is but proper he should be allowed to set himself right. No man toward the close of the war acquired a more brilliant reputation as a soldier than John B. Gordon. No man is more generally redon. No man is more generally respected than he throughout the South for all those qualities that once were regarded as pre-eminently belonging to the soldier and the gentleman. His popularity in his native State of Georgia made him. United States Senator over all comlarity in his native State of Georgia made him United States Senator over all competitors, and although we think he was wholly wrong in advocating an inflation of the crurency, we believed the opinions he expressed and the votes he cast on that question were honest. * * *

If was with a very different feeling that the report of his alleged intimacy with General Grant, and the disposition he expressed to favor, under certain conhe evinced to favor, under certain conditions, the nomination of Grant for third term were received. The defect tion of Longstreet was a painful sur-prise; for that of Herbert no one cared. But any wavering on the part of Gen-eral Gordon, stanch and true Democrat as he had been hitherto, was looked upon in a party sense as a great calamity. We are glad, therefore, that he has set him self right in a mater to which great currency was given in the Northern journals and that was working him serious harm. He denies that he ever claimed any inti-macy with Genreal Grant or knows any-thing of his aspirations or plaus beyond what he learned from others. General Gor-don declares emphatically that if it were possible to advocate a third term for any man, no consideration would induce him to sustain one "whose success would con-The guilty pair were tracked by the cler-gyman's wife, who captured her husband and took him back in triumph. inue in power for four years longer, the party whose pitiless measures have brought sorrow and ruin to our people brought sorrow and ruin to our people and irreparable damage to our free insti-tutions." On the day preceding I had gone down to Atlantic City. My brother came down as soon as it was fully realized that the child was gone past finding. He did not break the news to me until he had, in a measure, prepared my mind for it. It was a dreadful shock. CHICKEN THIEVES CAUGHT.—For several days past, a systematic course of chicken stealing has been carried on in DeKalb county. Dr. J. F. Alexander and his immediate neighbors have been heavy losers. From the former's place nearly forty valuable chickens were taken. Detective Ed. Murphy was put on the ease, and soon got on the track of the thieves. Day before yesterday he arrested three of them—all negroes—and lodged them in DeKalb county jail, whence it is to be hoped that they will make a speedy exit for the chain gang. Most of the Doctor's chickens were recovered. CHICKEN THIEVES CAUGHT.-For severs

She said her name was Mary Scott; that she was twenty-three years old, sud came to Augusta from Atlanta about three months ago. She also stated that she was a mother, having had a child some months ago, which died. She is but four feet five inches high, and apparently does not weigh seventy-five pounds. She plead guilty to the charge of vagrancy and was sentenced to six months on the chain gang. Monday evening while several gentlemen were out looking for Nannie Stockton, they passed a well near Lynch's quarry. Upon looking in they discovered what resembled a man's skull in the water, and reported the matter to policeman Drake. Yesterday, by means of a mirror, he endeavored to ascertain what was in the well, and came to the conclusion, from the appearance, that the object was a man's skull. The well is sixteen feet deep. A bucket was let down and the object drawn up, when it proved to be the body of a white male infant, enveloped in cloth. The infant had been in the well for several days, as the cloth surrounding it, as well as the body, bore marks of decay. The body has been taken care of to await an inquest by coroner Kile.

C. A. Evans and others-Interesting Exercises. The annual celebration of the Fulton County Sunday School Association came off yesterday at Sardis Charret, seven miles from this city. Some eight or nine schools were represented. The attendance yesterday was the largest ever known. This may be accounted for by two reasons; increased interest in the Sunday school cause, and the attendance of candidates for county, State and Federal offices.

At an early hour the people began to assemble. Among the first arrivals, soon after the sun began to peep over the Eastern hills, was Sidney Dell, Eq.

Editors Constitution: As your ci

menoement exercises of the University this year, a few lines in reference to matters here may not prove uninteresting to your readers, not a few of whom have some interest in this venerable institution of learning.

Athens, despite the hard times and scarcity of money, is on the march of improvement. New stores and residences are going up, old buildings are being worked into a more orderly condition, and there is an air of progress in everything that meets the eye. The University Chapel and the Hall of the Demostheniau Society, both externally and internally, have been handsomely painted and renovated, and the large historical painting in the Chapel has been encased in a superb heavy gilt frame. The new State College building, which is located on the campus, just in the rear of the Chapel, has been commenced, and will be completed as early as December. The plans were drawn by Prof. Charbonnier, and the work is being done under the immediate supervision of Mr. E. F. Hurt, a graduate, whose ability and energy allow of no unnecessary delays. The edifice will be a handsome three-story one, crowned with an attractive mansard root, and will cost about twenty-five thousand dollars, the gift of the city of Athens.

Atlanta is well represented, this year, in the University, and several of her students bear revered names, some of which are gathering new honors at this institution. In the "Catalogus Collegif Frankliniensis, Athenis," for example, the name of the second alumnns, under date of 1804, is that of A. S. Clayton, who subsequently became one of Georgia's most eminent sons. In 1827 the name of A. S. Clayton, and the propense of A. S. Clayton, fr., appears, and this year, among the students distinguished for scholarship. The other Atlanta students are J. S. Cook, A. W. Davis, Marion Erwin, W. W. Forsyth, A. M. Godfrey, E. M. Hammond, M. H. Hightower, C. E. Smith, J. H. Robinson, John B. Gordon, on Tuesday morning, by one of the Alumni Society. The general impression seems to be that this gentleman will give his hea to be unusually interesting; containing, as it will, the ripest thoughts of his life, which will be delivered in a most impressive and foreible manner. Taken as a whole, including the orations of the students, we may safely predict that the approaching Commencement exercises will be quite as interesting and attractive as those of any previous year, and draw as large a crowd of visitors. From numerous leavers already received by Mr. A. D. Climard, the proprietor of this popular hotel, it is evident that a large number of the most distinguished gentlemen and accomplished ladies of the state will be here, not to speak of the vast crowd of lesser personages who have signified their fintention to be present. Lastyear this large hotel was filled to overflowing, and many a guest turned away. This year, however, all will be amply provided for, as new rooms have been added and the most extensive preparations made to accommodate all who come with comfortable quarters. And as to social pleasures, Athens never was in a better condition for the very highest social enjoyment. The great central point of attraction, especially to the ladies who have superb toilets to display on that occasion, is the "University of Georgia Hop," to be held at Dupree's Hall on Tuesday night, which is being gotten up under the most favorable auspices. Mrs. Prof. W. Leroy Brown's name heads the list of lady managers, and Mr. H. H. Gordon, of Atlanta, is Chairman of the Committee on invitations, and is also one of the floor at Ponce de Leon Springs.

The flag presentation to the Fulton Blues, by the ladies of Atlanta, on yesterday evening, was the affair of the season. Before five o'clock large crowds began to collect at the famous Ponce de Leon Springs from all quarters. The street cars were densely packed, and at intervals of fitteen minutes carried large numbers out. Vehicles of all descriptions from the city poured out in a perfect stream.

At half-past five, quite a crowd collected in the large ball-room. A splendid string band began to discourse some soul-stirring music, and soon the floor was covered with couples anxious to "trip it on the light, fantastic toe."

About six o'clock the Fulton Blues, under command of Captain A. J. West, marched About six o'clock the Fulton Blues, under command of Captain A. J. West, marched out, forty strong. All was ready for the presentation, when Miss Annie Mays, looking the very perfection of loveliness appeared on the steps at the top of the hill, and, in the name of the ladies of Atlanta, presented the flag to the company with the following beautiful remarks: WEST POINT, July 30, 1874.

Gentlemen of the Fulton Blues:
You are now organized as a Military Company, and the ladies of Atlanta have instruced me to present to you a flag. We are in the midst of peace; no note of war is heard in the land; from the shores of the stormy Atlantic, to the coast of the broad Pacific there is nothing to disturb the tranquility of our country. The thunder of cannou and the clash of of arms so lately heard upon this very spot have died away. The smoke of conflict no longer darkens the sky. human race is in its highest form than its object is woman. Ambition is of the highest and purest type when stirred by the true woman. Religious devotion is the most fervent in woman. Particular is the most existed where the women of a country are the purest; and poblest, and truest. The soldiers of such a country are the bravest and most patricular, and the fair have always loved the brave.

How fitting then is it that this beautiful flag, so gracefully presented, should be consecrated by these fair hands. A flag has been defined to be "a standard on which are certain emblems indicative of a nationality," and every nation has a flag, as the indispensable symbol of its nationality and of the allegiance of the soldiers who march under its banners.

The flag is one of the most beautiful we have ever seen. It is a perfect masterspiece of workmanship. It is made of heavy blue silk, fringed with gold and hung on an elegant walnut staff. The painting was done by Mr. William Mackie of this city, and is a splendid exhibition of his skill and artistic taste. On one side there is a glit wreath so exquisitely painted as to perfectly imitate embroidery. Within the wreath the following words are painted it git letters: "Presented by the Ladies of Atlanta, July 30th, 1874." On the other side at the top and bottomfare inscribed the words; "Fulton Blues, Reorganized May 21st, 1874." In the center is a finely executed scene, representing one of the fearless exploits of the famous Atalanta. Atalanta stands in the foreground in all the majesty of her powerful frame. In her hand she holds a leash from which a fierce dog is struggling to be free. At her side stands one of her many suitors looking on in admiration. In the back-ground a fierce battle is in progress between the dogs of the huntress and an inturiated boar. The scene is copfed from a painting by a celebrated artist in Philadelphia. The painting was one of a series of four which sold for one thousand dollars.

SCHENCK'S SEA WEED TONIC.—In the atmosphere experienced here during the summer months, the lethargy produced by the heat, takes the desire for wholesome food, and frequent perspirations reduce bodily energy, particularly those suffering from the effects of debilitating diseases. In order to keep a natural healthful activity of the system, we must resort to artificial means. For keep a natural healthful activity of the system, we must resort to artificial means. For this purposa Schenck's Sea Weed Tonic is very effectual. A few doses will create an appetite and give fresh vigor to the enerwated body. For dyspepsia, it is invaluable. Many eminent physicians have doubted whether dyspepsia can be permanently cured by the drugs which are generally employed for the purpose. The Sea Weed Tonic in its nature is totally different from such drugs. It contains no corrosive minerals or acids; in fact it assists the regular operations of nature, and supplies her deficiencies. The tonic in its nature so much resembles the gastric juice that it is almost identical with that fluid. The gastric juice is the natural solvent which, in a healthy condition of the body, causes the food to be digested; and when this juice is not excreted in sufficient quantities, indigestion, with all its distress-

OPIUM ANTIDOTE.

Before it is too Late! Dr. S. B. Collins' Painless

OPIUM ANTIDOTE Is a perfect and painless cure for

The Habitual use of Opium, MORPHINE, LAUDANUM, ELIXIR, or GUM OPIUM

It Positively Produces a Perm anen Cure.

It is strange yet true, that as a rule it is in the brightest intellects, the best members of society become addicted to this diseased appetite. A habit which makes them slaves, beclouds their minds, ruins their dispositions, and gives them in their more natural moments a hatred of self as well as a feeling that everybody despises them—to such an extent that society has no charms. But thanks to the Giver of all good, this morbid, terrible habit, and degraded condition, as well as all of the desire and feeling for optates in any form is soon removed by this remarkable antidote, entirely so, and the weakened body and mind are invigorated, given renewed health until love and hope take the place of despondency and doubt. Though you may not be afflicted with the habit of using MORPHIRE, LAUDANUM, or other forms of OPIUM, some friend may be, and you know it not, therefore let me ask you, in the name of suffering humanity to pass this on. By so doing you may reap the reward of those who do good. Dellay NOT.
